Chalet Spent occupies a glorious mountainside location with panoramic views into the valley and across to the neighbouring pine-clad hillsides. Generous accommodation over three floors provides plenty of space for up to 12 people.

After a day on the slopes, you can return to Chalet Spent's spacious open-plan living space, cosy lounge and bar areas and fabulous wellness area. The wellness area features pale wood and natural stone to create a restful ambiance with saunas, indoor pool, hot tub and treatment room.

At the heart of the main living space, a feature fireplace offers a cosy place to relax with sofa seating to one side and the dining area and kitchen to the other. This room opens onto a wide balcony with magnificent views over the valley. Here, you can sit out under the snow-capped timbers and watch the stars dance across the evening sky. Or head inside to the cosy lounge areas, including a well-stocked bar and wine cellar, or the wood-clad games room with a second bar area, football table and selection of vinyl records to play.

The gorgeous bedrooms are decorated in similarly relaxing neutral tones, with sumptuous velvets and rustic timbers creating a relaxed mountain vibe. As well as the four double rooms, each with en-suite bathroom, Chalet Osprey has a four-bunk kids bedroom with its own shower room.

The charming Austrian village of Lech perches high in the mountains, between 1,450 and 2,450 metres above sea level. Lech is part of the Alberg, Austria's largest contiguous ski area. With 350km of downhill slopes and 27km of groomed cross-country ski trails, including the Flexen Pass, you can be sure of great skiing throughout the season. Other winter activities available in the area include heliskiing and off-piste skiing with local guides, as well as Snowpark Lech, the Monazabon ice rink and the toboggan run at the Bergbahn Oberlech cable car. Beside the wellness area, you'll find the boot room with heated boot warmer and ski racks.

Through the summer months, this beautiful mountain terrain offers ample opportunities to enjoy golf, fishing, trail running, mountain hikes and mountain biking.

Our passionate and highly professional team consisting of our Host, Michelin Star Chefs, Butler, Housekeeping and service personnel are there to make your stay an unforgettable experience.
