This property is an impressive conversion of a ruin into a modern villa, with a minimal vibe exuding comfort and simplistic luxury. The rural surroundings and the proximity to the many attractions of the Algarve make the villa a perfect destination for a holiday with family or friends.

Effortless Luxury Interiors

Between the green knotty olive trees, the long-extended building shines brightly in white.

Once rundown and neglected, this traditional house has been rebuilt and extended by an annex.

The original structure features three bedrooms and two bathrooms, while the new wing houses a large living room with a fireplace.

The old and new buildings are connected by the central entrance area.

There is a seamless flow between the rooms and large windows open them out to the garden. The minimalist interior design, the concrete flooring, and linear shapes combine to create a pleasant modern ambiance.

Casa August is situated in the hilly hinterland of the Algarve region in southern Portugal, near the picturesque village of Santa Bárbara de Nexe.

The house has several patios, terraces, and a rooftop terrace with beautiful views over the hills of the surrounding nature reserve.

The 15-meter-long pool in the garden is built into a large concrete block, which partly sinks into the ground and defines the border of the property.
