Bishopsgate is a 43-storey skyscraper located in the very heart of the city comprising a hotel with 237 rooms, private apartments, restaurants and boutiques. The Grand Tower made from steel and glass is an impressive construction by PLP Architecture. The facade is partially covered with bronze blinds that protect it from the sun and actualize its futuristic design. Bishopsgate Plaza within the development has become a new addition to an illustrious list of London's squares and has located breathing spaces and glamorous concept retail. Five-star Europe's first Pan Pacific Hotel with spa complex and conference rooms occupies 6th to 19th floors of the skyscraper. The interiors conceived by world renowned designers Yabu and Pushelberg, famous for their Park Hyatt and Four Seasons, welcome the epitome of modern luxury.

Soaring above the city from level 21 to 41, The Sky Residences feature floor-to-ceiling glazing and have unique views, including the River Thames, Tower Bridge, St. Paul's Cathedral and The Gherkin. The interiors of homes feature a refined neo-classical elegance with marble and wooden décor developed by MSMR Architects. A dedicated concierge on the 19th floor will take care of all arrangements leaving you time to enjoy what really matters. You may request flower or food delivery, baby sitting or room service. On the 32nd level there's a club room and a playroom with billiards. Just one floor up above you'll find an open deck with glorious panorama of some of London's most iconic landmarks. The residents get access to all of Pan Pacific's amenities, including a swimming pool, fitness and wellness suite, a bar and a restaurant.
